

Kevin is a member of the Diocese of Central Florida having been baptized, raised, and confirmed at the Church of the Holy Spirit, Apopka. He served as an acolyte and was an active member of the youth group. As a teen he joined the Youth Action Committee and the New Beginnings Committee helping to organize and oversee diocesan youth events. He continued working with youth as a young adult serving on diocesan youth committees and as a youth minister at Resurrection, Longwood and then St. Sebastian's by-the-Sea, Melbourne.

Anyone who knows Kevin, knows his heart for children and youth. Beyond his work as a youth minister, he has also worked as an elementary teacher and as a psychiatric assistant at a residential facility for youth with behavioral health challenges.

In 2013, having felt a call in his prayers and being encouraged by those he loves, Kevin began to discern a call to the priesthood. In 2018 he was ordained and is serving as the Rector of St. Mary of the Angels, Orlando. He has continued to work with youth taking on the leadership of the New Beginnings Committee and serving as the chaplain for numerous events at Camp Wingmann (where he is affectionately referred to as, "RevKev").

Kevin is passionate regarding the work and mission of this diocese. If elected to the Diocesan Board, he would serve with humility and grace while promoting the work of this diocese with an emphasis on building up the next generation of Christ's church.
